Reasons for Allowance

1. Claim 41 has been amended into independent form. The claim is allowable because of the limitation:

- Filtering for the availability of the individual when it is detected that the individual is no longer present on the communication network, wherein the first profile indicates that the individual can be contacted by instant messaging and by telephone and wherein the second profile indicates that the individual cannot be contacted by phone but can be contacted by instant messaging.

No prior art has been found which discloses this limitation. All other limitations to claim 41 were rejected as previously presented in the final action of 2/10/06. Accordingly, there are no standing rejections against claim 41. Claims 42 and 43 depend upon independent claim 41 and are allowable because their independent claim is allowable.

The closest art of record to the limitation established above is found in US patent 6301609, Aravamudan et al. (Column 9, lines 50-63) & (Column 6, lines 3-31) discloses an instant messaging system wherein each client has an associated preferences and personal information section. The personal information discloses a client's phone number, email address, and other pieces of personal information.

However, no express instance is disclosed in which a second profile would indicate that an individual cannot be contacted by phone but can be contacted by instant messaging. In light of figure 8, of the specification, examining the contact list for the entities, "Tom" and "Pete" indicates expressly that a user or client may be accessed through one means, but not through another means. Aravamudan et al. only discloses personal profiles for clients, their relevant contact information, and which device a client is using to access the network. (Column 7, lines 13-20)
